

Privacy Statement

TCC is committed to your privacy and adheres to the General Data Protection Regulations (GDPR). This statement sets out how we use your personal data and your rights.

Your personal information will be held by TCC, registered as The Consulting Consortium Ltd for the purpose of the EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR).

TCC is the Controller of personal data relating to the professional individuals within its client or prospective client firms, for the purposes of relationship management, marketing and business development. This statement relates to this data only.

Personal Data We Collect

TCC collects your personal data, including information provided in various ways. Some of this data is gained directly from you, including:

- In emails, during telephone calls and conversations, from business cards, when registering for services, when participating in surveys, and when using TCC's websites.

Some personal data may also be gained indirectly, such as:

- Information gained through other organisations (for example LinkedIn) whether or not this is in the course of providing regulatory compliance services to you. Learn more here.
- Information we gather from your use of, and interaction with, our website and the devices you use to access them, using technology such as cookies.

The data that we collect will depend upon our interactions with you, the privacy settings and features that you choose. The personal data we collect normally includes names, job title, company, IP addresses and contact details such as phone numbers and email addresses. Find out more.

How we use Personal Data

TCC will only process your data where it has a legal basis for doing so. TCC uses the data collected to communicate with you and to offer you our regulatory consultancy services and/or services related to our sister company Record Sure Limited which offers technology systems and services that are complimentary to the services provided by TCC. We will also use your data to improve or maintain the services we offer to you and our website. We will never share your data with any other third party, other than those stated in this policy, nor use your data for any other purpose, unless we firstly gain your consent to do so.

We may use your data for profiling in the context of segmentation and targeting for marketing purposes. We may use personal data such as job title, sector, company and your previous activity on our website or with our marketing communications. This enables us to provide you with information and promotions that are likely to be relevant to you. We may also use data such as your name and job title to personalise communications you receive from TCC and our website.

You have the right to access rectify, erase, object and restrict the processing of your personal data, with the ability to choose which promotional communications you wish to receive and how you would like to receive them. You also have the right to opt-out of receiving our marketing communications at any time. To manage your subscriptions or personal data, please see the Your Rights section.

Our legal basis for processing personal data

Our legal basis for processing your personal data may rely upon our Legitimate Interest or Legal Obligation. Further information can be found here.

Recipients of Personal Data

TCC shares your data with the following third-party service providers. The data storage and processing systems are protected by access controls, to minimise any risk to the integrity or security of your personal data, and the data is stored in servers in the UK, EU and USA.

- Salesforce / Pardot
- Typeform
- WordPress, hosted by WP-Engine
- Unbounce
- Go to Webinar
- Microsoft Sharepoint
- Access Dimensions

TCC will ensure that any third-party processor has adequate data protection measures in place that align with the requirements of the GDPR by conducting periodic due diligence. TCC will not share your data with any third-party processor outside of the UK, EU or USA.

TCC does not sell your personal data or other information to any third-party.

TCC stores personal information on a secure database which is shared with our associated company Recordsure.

Although data is stored centrally, all communication is segmented between the separate companies. Signing up to either mailing list will provide content from the relevant company, and subscribers can opt in or out of the respective mailing lists on an individual basis. We may on occasion share content between companies when we believe the information will be relevant and valuable.

You can opt into the TCC mailing list here to receive our regular newsletter featuring updates on development, analysis and insights. In addition, we may send ad hoc emails containing valuable information such as white papers and event invitations.

To subscribe to the Recordsure mailing list, please visit the Recordsure website here.

Where possible we will tailor the content we send subscribers to keep it relevant, for example, if you work in compliance we will try to share compliance specific material with you. You have the right to opt out of content tailored on your profile information by ticking the relevant box on our Preferences page.

Once TCC has received your information TCC is committed to ensuring it has all necessary technical and organisational controls in place to keep your information secure. In order to prevent unauthorised access or disclosure TCC has put in place suitable physical, electronic and managerial procedures to safeguard and secure the information TCC collects.

Retention period

TCC will only keep your personal data for as long as necessary for the purposes for which it was gained. Personal data will be retained for the purposes of direct marketing, relationship management and business development, or where we have another legal basis for processing (such as your consent or a contract with you). TCC will review the personal data we hold on you every 12 months to check for accuracy and relevancy and to ensure that we continue to have a legal basis for processing. If the personal data is no longer necessary, or where we no longer have the legal basis for processing, we will delete or fully anonymise the data we hold on you, in line with our GDPR Policy. If your data becomes inaccurate, we will update it accordingly.

The exception is information collected from surveys, feedback and questionnaires, which are held only for the duration of its usefulness i.e. the duration of a campaign. The data is then anonymised and retained for internal evidential purposes, or deleted.

Complaints

TCC will be more than happy to help you should you have any complaints about the processing of your personal data. Under the GDPR, you have the right to lodge a complaint with the Supervisory Authority, the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO), who are the national authority responsible for the protection of personal data. A complaint can be made to the ICO via their website: ico.org.uk or through their helpline: 0303 123 1113.

Legal Basis

TCC relies upon the following legal bases for processing the personal data obtained from the practices outlined in Personal Data we Collect.

Legitimate interest

‘Legitimate Interest’ means the interests of our company in conducting and managing our business to enable us to give you the best services and experience. For example, we have an interest in making sure our services are relevant for you, so we may process your personal data to contact you by telephone with discussions tailored to your interests.

When we process your personal information for our legitimate interests, we make sure to consider the balance and any potential impact on you (both positive and negative) and your rights under the data protection regulation. Our legitimate business interests do not automatically override your interests – we will not use your personal data for activities where our interests are overridden by the impact on you (unless we have your consent or are otherwise required or permitted to by law).

Our legitimate business interests may include some or all of the following:

- For evidential purposes to effectively manage and maintain records of our relationships/communications with you;
- For business development related activity such as contacting you by telephone or email to arrange meetings with our experts in relation to work or knowledge sharing;

- To enhance, modify, personalise or otherwise improve our services and communications for the benefit of you;
- To better understand how you interact with our website and content in order to enhance your customer experience;
- To determine the effectiveness of promotional campaigns to inform marketing strategy.

Legal obligation

Sometimes we will process your personal data to enable us to comply with our obligations to the FCA when carrying out a Section 166 Skilled Person's Review.

Cookies

What are cookies?

Cookies are small text files that are generated by the website that you are viewing, allowing the website to store information as you navigate web pages. These text files contain session data that can be useful to improve your browsing experience. All of the cookies used by TCC are safe for your computer and they only store information that is used by the browser. These cookies cannot execute code and cannot be used to access content on your computer. Many of these cookies are necessary to ensure the proper functioning of the website. They do not contain malware or viruses. Other cookies improve user experience by storing previously viewed and downloaded content or to remember preferences (like form field values).

You can choose to accept or decline cookies. This may prevent you from taking full advantage of TCC's websites. Learn more.

How TCC uses cookies

TCC uses cookies to distinguish you from other users of TCC's websites. This helps us analyse statistical data about our webpage traffic and monitor individual tracking data to improve our website in order to tailor it to visitor needs. We may use cookies and an IP tracking code to collect data.

Overall, cookies help us provide you with a better website, by enabling us to monitor which pages and content you find useful and which you do not. A cookie in no way gives us access to your computer or any information about you, other than the data you choose to share with us.

TCC uses the following cookies:

Performance cookies – TCC uses these cookies to measure the performance of TCC's websites through Google Analytics, such as visitor numbers, time spent on site and stores you (anonymously) as a visitor to our website. These are necessary cookies and the information is used for statistical purposes and does not identify you as an individual user. You cannot block these cookies unless you do so on your own computer, instructions for doing so can be found below.

Functionality cookies – TCC uses these cookies to recognise you when you return to our website through our marketing automation system, Pardot. This enables us to personalise our content for you, greet you by name and remember your preferences. You can deny us access to these cookies within the cookies notice or below.

Targeting cookies – TCC uses these cookies to record your visit to TCC's websites, the pages you have visited and the links you have followed through our marketing automation system, Pardot. TCC will use this information to make TCC's websites more relevant to your interests. You can deny us access to these cookies within the cookies notice or below.

What cookies TCC uses

Google Analytics

TCC uses Google Analytics to collect information about how visitors use our site. We use the information to compile reports and to help us improve the site. The cookies collect information in an anonymous form, including the number of visitors to the site, where visitors have come to the site from and the pages visited.

Cookie Name	Description
_utma	Google Analytics: We use Google Analytics to monitor traffic levels, search queries and visits to this website.
_utmb	Google Analytics stores IP address anonymously on its servers in the US, and neither CIVIC or Google associate your IP address with any personally identifiable information.
_utmc	These cookies enable Google to determine whether you are a return visitor to the site, and to track the pages that you visit during your session.
_utmz	These cookies are set only after the user has given consent to us to use cookies.

Additional Information:

Google Analytics Privacy Policy.

You can choose to opt out of Google Analytics.

Pardot

TCC uses Pardot to track what individual users are doing on our website (such as pages visited and documents downloaded) and compiles this information into a visitor profile. Pardot sets first-party cookies for tracking purposes, and sets third-party cookies for redundancy. Using first-party and third-party cookies together is standard in the marketing automation industry. Pardot cookies do not store personally identifying information, they store only a unique identifier.

Cookie Name	Description
visitor_idxxxxx	Visitor Cookie: The visitor cookie includes the name "visitor_id" plus the unique identifier, which is derived from the tracking code placed on your site. The value stored is the unique ID for the visitor. For example, cookie name "visitor_id12345" stores the visitor value "123456789," where 12345 is the account identifier and 123456789 represents the visitor ID. This cookie is set by our tracking code on visitors and prospects.

pardot	Pardot App Session Cookie: The session cookie named “pardot” is only set if you’re logged into our app as a user (i.e. prospects will not have this cookie set).

3rd party list

TCC may obtain data indirectly about you from publicly available sources and via referrals from third party individuals and companies.

The publicly available sources we may obtain personal data from you include:

- Social media sites where you have a publicly accessible profile, such as LinkedIn
- Your company websites
- The FCA register

Your colleagues, associates and acquaintances may pass on your personal data to TCC's employees by way of referral because they think TCC and/or Recordsure's services may be relevant to you. TCC will process this data to make contact with you.

We may collect a range of personal work-related data from these sources such as:

- Names
- Job title
- Company
- Email address
- Phone Number
- Significant function
- Company Address

We protect the data obtained from third parties according to the practices described in this statement.

Changes to this Privacy Statement

We reserve the right to change this statement. Changes will be published on our website www.tcc.group/privacy-statement/ and previous versions will continue to be available here. We will notify you of any material changes to this statement via email (where possible) but recommend that you also check this statement regularly, so that you are informed of any changes.
